AANS/NREF/NPA Content Validation Statements and CME Policies*

The AANS/NREF/NPA requires that the content of CME activities provide balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor. Planning must be free of the influences or control of a commercial entity and promote improvements or quality in health care. In addition, the content or format of a CME activity and its related materials must promote improvements or quality in health care and not a specific proprietary commercial interest.

All AANS/NREF/NPA CME activities must be compliant with the following ACCME content validation statements:

- ✓ All the recommendations involving clinical medicine in a CME activity must be based on evidence that is accepted within the profession of medicine as adequate justification for their indications and contraindications in the care of patients.
- ✓ All scientific research referred to, reported or used in CME in support or justification of a patient care recommendation must conform to the generally accepted standards of experimental design, data collection and analysis.

Presentations must give a balanced view of therapeutic options. Use of generic names will contribute to this impartiality. If the CME educational material or content includes trade names, trade names from several companies should be used and not just trade names from a single company. Educational materials that are part of a CME activity such as slides, abstracts and handouts cannot contain any advertising, trade names without generic names (but listing of trade names from several companies is permissible) or product-group advertising.

Any individual refusing to comply with this policy and/or not disclosing relevant financial relationships annually will not participate in, have control of or responsibility for the development, management or presentation of AANS/NREF/NPA CME activities.

- I have read and I understand and agree with the statements above.
- I have read and I understand but do not agree with the statements above (you will be contacted by an AANS/NREF/NPA staff member).

ACCME's Updated Standards for Commercial Support requires that anyone in a position to control the content of the education activity has disclosed all financial relationships with any commercial interest. For the purpose of this disclosure, ACCME considers the financial relationships of your spouse/partner/co-author to be included as yours. Failure or refusal to disclose or the inability to satisfactorily resolve the identified conflict may result in the withdrawal of the invitation to participate in any AANS/NREF/NPA education activities.

This disclosure form is now linked to all AANS/NREF/NPA speaking engagements. Therefore, disclose all relevant financial relationships only once, not per engagement or role.

Glossary of Terms

Commercial Interest: The ACCME defines a commercial interest as any entity producing, marketing, re-selling or distributing health care goods or services consumed by, or used on, patients.

Conflict of Interest: Circumstances create a conflict of interest when an individual has the opportunity to affect CME content or organizational decisions about products or services of a commercial interest or other entity with which he/she has a financial or organizational relationship

Financial Relationships: The ACCME defines "Financial Relationships" as those relationships in which benefits by receiving a salary, royalty, intellectual property rights, consulting fee, honoraria, ownership interest (i.e. stocks, stock options or other ownership interest, excluding diversified mutual funds) or other benefit. Financial benefits are usually associated with roles such as employment, management position, independent contractor (including contracted research), consulting, speaking and teaching, membership on advisory committees or review panels, board membership and other activities from which remuneration is received and/or expected. ACCME considers relationships of the person included in the CME activity to include financial relationships of a spouse/partner.

Relevant Financial Relationships: The ACCME defines "Relevant Financial Relationships" as financial relationships in any amount occurring within the past 12 months that create a conflict of interest. ACCME focuses on financial relationships with commercial interests in a 12- month period preceding the item that the individual is being asked to assume a role controlling content of the CME activity. ACCME has not set a minimal dollar amount for relationships to significant. Inherent in any amount is the incentive to maintain or increase the value of that relationship.
